Pres. R. S. Wells Is Heard

President Rulon S. Wells of the First Council of Seventy spent Monday afternoon and evening at Raymond, meeting with and instructing the Seventy's Quorum members and Presidents, Missionaries and Stake Mission officials. Meetings were held at 2 and 6:30 p.m. where problems were discussed and decisions reached for the better carrying out of Quorum and missionary work in the future.

A public meeting was held at 8 p.m. and considering the weather a very good attendance was present. Brief testimonies were given by Elders E. P. Tanner and I. B. Roberts, senior President of the Seventy's Quorum, and Elder Jas. S. Anderson a former Seventy President. The main speaker was Elder Wells who despite his 83 years, gave a very comprehensive discourse on the plan of Life and Salvation, commencing with the pre-existent state and tracing the progress of the individual right through earth life, the spirit world, and the glorious consummation of man's mission. Many points were touched on which seldom are mentioned and the audience gave very good attention to the speaker.

Pres. H. F. Allen also announced that John D. Giles, of the Y. M. M. I. A. General Board would be here on November 28th, to hold a tri-Stake Convention with the Aaronic Priesthood supervisors and Scout workers, in connection with the program for the youth of the Church. More details of this Convention will be received later.

Big Carnival Next Week

When you hear them shout 53 under the B next Thursday night in the 2nd Ward Hall, you know the Second Ward Carnival is under way once more. Coming as a climax to weeks of planning preparation the big two night entertainment furnishes fun for young and old, and assists in the payment of the expense in finishing the building. The people of the Ward hope to have it finished and dedicated next May, and there remains considerable work before this can be done.

To enable everyone to assist, and still to provide amusement for the money received the Carnival is organized as a fund-fest, and all who attend have great fun. Games of skill and chance, turkey shoot, markets of food, bedding and what not, all occupy the attention of the crowds. Then too, there are the prizes drawn for every 30 minutes, and the four $25 prizes given away each night. This year there will be 208 people who will win money during the two nights, so that the sponsors certainly cannot be accused of trying to take all and give nothing.

Be on hand Thursday and Friday nights next, and remember the fun starts at 7 p.m. each night.

Golden Snow Heads A.A.A.

The annual meeting of the Raymond A. A. A. was held in the Town Hall Wednesday night at 8 p.m., with about 20 present. The reports of the past year's activities were presented showing the Association to be in good condition and to have finished a successful year. The retiring officers were given a vote of thanks for their efficient labors.

The election of new officers resulted as follows:

President - J. Golden Snow.
Vice-Pres. - J. Velv Heggie.

Sec.-Treas. - Shirley King.
Rayo Woolf was re-elected Honorary President, and Lloyd McPhee is the district representative of the Provincial Executive in this part of the Province.

Plans are under consideration for the most thorough membership drive ever staged, and the executive want at least 250 members to pay their dollar this year. In view of the benefit and pleasure we all enjoy from sport we should dig up our dollar without so much sales talk when the Association asks for it.

Vice-Pres.—Mrs. S. B. Card.

150 AT SECOND WARD SUPPER

The 2nd Ward Choir supper last Friday night was attended by a small crowd in comparison with the first one held, only about 150 being seated at the tables during the evening. The stormy weather no doubt had great deal to do with the small attendance, and then too, it came as the climax of a busy week.

After the majority had been served their supper the following program was rendered:

Tap Dance - Marilyn Holland.
Dramatic Skit - "Painless Dentistry" by Doctor Yankem and troop.
Vocal Solo - Myra Dahl.
Tap Dance - Jean Hawk.
Musical Reading - Melba King.
Male Quartette - Milton Strong and Co.

Following this the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing for those who desired this entertainment. An excellent meal was served and for a very good cause, and it is to be regretted that a larger attendance was not there.

MIKE MOUNTAIN HORSE SPEAKS IN 2ND WARD

Those who attended the Raymond 2nd Ward Sacrament meeting Sunday night were treated to a very interesting talk by Mike Mountain Horse, a full-blooded Indian from the Blood Reserve who spoke on the history and traditions of the Indians and enlightened the people on many points of Indian history. At the end of his talk he displayed a large suit case full of Indian war weapons and household articles, in general use many years ago, and great interest was displayed by the audience in this display, which was in very good condition and very well preserved.

The Hall was packed for the meeting.

POWELL SENTENCED TO SIX MONTHS

Three days after sentencing Jos. H. Unwin to three months at hard labor, Mr. Justice W. C. Ives, who heard Geo. F. Powell's case without a jury sentenced him to six months hard labor, with a recommendation that he be sent back to England at the expiration of his sentence. He blamed Powell as the main figure back of the printing of the famous "Bankers Toadies" leaflets, and told him that his claim of being a technician was false and that he was a propagandist and nothing more.

At present Powell and Unwin are both out on bail, each on $20,000 and their cases are being appealed.

BOOSTING FOR YOUR HOME TOWN

Boosting is our business. We believe we have a good town, and we like to tell the world about it and what we are doing. We like to see business firms and also individuals who are boosters for the town where they make their living, because they believe in the Town and its future. You are very likely to live and die in this town, then why not do all you can to make it the best town in the world.

If you are in business put your best into your business. Make people glad to meet you and do business with you. If you are a citizen, then help build your town by spending your money with the merchants in Raymond. Here is where your children are being educated, here is where your friends and relatives come to visit you, and here is the place you call "home". After all whether it is the kind of a place you want it to be or not, depends more upon you than any other individual in all the world.

We know some of the arguments used to justify sending our money away, and to an extent they may be justified. However, if all that is spent away from Raymond were spent with the merchants in the town, it would make a great difference to the service and the prices the town merchants would be able to offer. Then too, when you want credit you don't send to Lethbridge, Regina or Winnipeg, because they don't know you. Cash is the only thing that talks with them. No, you go to your local merchant, tell your sad tale, and too often, the local merchant softens his heart against his better judgment, and let's you have tiek. And then, well you have what you needed, and the local man can wait for his pay until you are good and ready to pay, and if legislation enables you to beat him out of it, many of us do it and then finally, in desperation the local man starts action to collect his just dues, he is anything but a gentleman because he gets tough with you.

No, neighbor, there is very little justification for slighting the home town merchants for the city stores. The thousands of dollars that go away every year do not help educate your children nor do they build up your town. We need more room for our schools, to have this we need more taxes. Where will they come from? Certainly not from the dollars that we send away. You dislike increased taxes, everyone does. But, schools and public services must go on and the bill must be met by taxes. Spending our money at home would increase the flow of capital in our town, some of it would undoubtedly get back to you, you and the business men of the Town could pay their taxes better, and we would get these essential improvements made, and too often, the local merchant softens his heart a-

Let's make Raymond bigger and better by spending our dollars at HOME where our interests are.

Our Edmonton Letter

T. B. WINDROSS

Edmonton, Alberta, Nov. 18. Trials of the "Social Credit expert" George. Powell, Major C. H. Douglas' missioner from London, and Joseph H. Unwin, M. L. A. for Edson and up to now Social Credit whip in the legislature, have occupied the centre of the stage at Edmonton during the past week, and are expected to prove eventually the real turning point in the politics and career of the Aberhart government.

The two men were charged with four offences each under the criminal code: counselling to murder, seditious libel, defamatory libel knowing the same to be false. The charges arose out of a leaflet published in September, allegedly at the behest of the government's agency of the Social Credit board and the subsidiary "press bureau" or propaganda department.

The attorney-general's department headed by Prem. Wm. Aberhart as an attorney-general without benefit of legal training, created the first surprise when it announced that it was withdrawing from the prosecution of the two defamatory libel charges, action on the counselling-to-murder charge the seditious libel charge against each man having already been stood over.

But through the permission of the court, the case against Powell and Unwin on the defamatory libel charges continued as a "private prosecution" as provided under the law, with Major-General William A. Griesbach, member of the Canadian senate and one of the nine Edmonton citizens named in the allegedly libellous pamphlets, in the role of plaintiff.

Unwin, first to be tried, elected trial by jury before Mr. Justice Ives, and that jury returned its unanimous verdict -- guilty after just one hour's deliberation. Unwin had offered no defence. Members of the jury were an Edmonton taxi driver, A. Clyde machinery agent, a Stony Plain carpenter, a Picaudville clerk, a Wainwright implement agent, and an Edmonton box factory manager. The conviction was registered on just one of the two defamatory libel charges -- the more serious, "defamatory libel knowing the same to be false."

Sentencing Unwin to three months' hard labor at Fort Saskatchewan jail, the judge gave him a piece of advice.

"The course you were pursuing the bench told the Social Credit whip, 'if pursued by members of the legislature assembly is bound to bring about what your counsel terms a crisis in the legislature."

"You have reached a milestone in your career, and I would say this is a point when you should stop and do a little personal stock-taking. When the voters of Edson elected you as their representative to the legislative assembly of Alberta they conferred on you the highest honor that was in their power -- a position of trust. And in return to them and to the people of the province you owe the very best public service that you are capable of giving.

"The taxpayers of this province cannot afford to waste money. They are paying you $1,800 a year for public service to indemnify you for loss of your time which you devote to their service. Now, surely you cannot square this conduct that has been disclosed in your trial with the discharge of that great duty of public service.

"Think it over."

After being sentenced to jail and having given his counsel instructions to launch an appeal. Unwin went on the witness stand immediately as the chief crown witness against Powell, and declared that the London "Social Credit expert" had been responsible for the libellous pamphlet and that he himself -- Unwin -- had done nothing more than take it to the printer, in accordance with his routine duty as a sort of printing supervisor for the Social Credit board. He told of Mr. Powell developing the idea contained on one side of the leaflet and said that he himself had not been responsible for the writing in of the names of the nine Edmonton men, known as opponents of the government, who were classified by the pamphlets as "Bankers' Tondies" over the exhortation: "Exterminate them." He had got the copy for the leaflet from Powell, said Unwin.

And Powell, called to the stand in his own defence, denied that he had written in the names of the nine men. He had instructed Unwin he said, to write into the copy the names of political parties in Alberta because he himself -- although he had been in Alberta for five months as a "technician" and "political expert" on behalf of the Social Credit organization -- did not know the names or relationships of the various political parties in the province.

So the responsibility was Unwin's and he was either mistaken or telling untruths in statements that he (Powell) had written all the pamphlet, said Powell.

The week's court sitting adjourned with Powell's trial, before the judge without jury, was completed.

Senator Griesbach testified that Powell had made no effort to ascertain the truth of the pamphlet's implication that Griesbach was a 'bankers' toady' and had he taken the trouble to inquire before the pamphlet he would have received a denial.

The senator on the witness stand also described conditions in Alberta today, attributable to Social Credit government propaganda.

"The state of public opinion is inflamed by the course which public discussions have taken in the past two years," Griesbach told the court. "The premier, his government and his followers resent or pretend to resent any criticism or opposition offered to them, as being unworthy and they say that those who oppose them represent the 'big shots' the financial interests, and they say that those who attack them and oppose them are insincere, that they are attempting to keep the people of this province in a position of economic slavery for selfish motives of their own."

"That, having been followed by the government and its supporters has created a condition in the public minds such as we have never known before, engendering bitterness and hostility as between individuals throughout the whole province."

The cry of martyrdom of Unwin and Powell already has raised in government-inspired organizations -- although there has been no indication yet just how Premier Aberhart, in his own mind regards the prosecutions. But the chairman of an Edmonton Social Credit meeting attended by Aberhart and Manning last Friday night, while the Powell trial was on and after Unwin had been sentenced, told the audience that the two accused were martyrs to the cause -- they were being tried for Social Credit and not for any crime, he said.

And the premier sat silent on that subject he would give no direct answer when asked from the audience whether there was any side to the question other than that which had been brought out in court: that Douglas had advised the government to "not hesitate to pillory all those opposed to Social Credit theories."

Plow Assists Radio Engineers

Even in these days of advanced science the radio engineer turns to the humble plow -- perhaps man's first mechanical achievement -- to assist him in the construction of an ultra-modern high powered broadcasting station. Here we see the plow, specially designed by J. B. Radford, in charge of installation of the two 50 kilowatt stations, at Hornby, Ontario, and Vercheres, Quebec, which are being built for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation by the Northern Electric Company Limited, in Montreal. The plow is used for the burying of 15 miles of copper wire in the form of a huge wheel at the base of the 650 ft. radiating tower, at the top of which, as shown in our sketch, is an aerial beacon. This mass of wire forms a perfect ground system and is as wide as the tower is high. These two stations, the most powerful in Canada, will be on the air early this fall.

WEEKLY LISTER Basin Listing.

Considerable interest has developed recently in basin listing as means of conserving water by preventing it from running off the fields. A number of devices have been developed for listing fields and damming up the lister furrows at short intervals to accomplish what is called "Basin Listing" as the dams form closed basins of the lister furrows. These basins hold the water from rain as it falls or catch the water from melting snow and theoretically should prevent any of the precipitation from running off the field even on quite steep slopes.

The actual value of this listing has not yet been determined in this locality but a number of farmers are trying it this fall some on a fairly extensive scale so that next year there should be some information as to its value.

Basin listing would seem to be especially desirable on steep lands in the foothills area where rainfall is sometimes sufficient to cause noticeable water erosion. It takes but a casual inspection in this area to see that the top soil is being washed off from some knolls and slopes and that gulleys are being formed in the depressions. This indicates that an appreciable amount of water is running off the field and being lost, in addition to valuable top soil being carried from the fields and gulleys being formed that will eventually become deep eroded channels. If anything can be done to prevent the loss of this water and silt it will remove one of the serious difficulties that is now facing the farmers on rolling land in good rainfall areas. In the drier district's the amount of moisture that can be saved may be sufficient to make basin listing worth while. This remains to be seen, however.

Listing is also effective as a means of checking soil drifting on bare lands. A number of farmers have listed their fields for this purpose this fall with satisfactory results. In a previous letter a lister was described that is made by attaching lister shovels to a duckfoot cultivation. A basin lister can be used just as effectively for drifting control but the regular basin listers made by the machinery companies have not been available.

A farmer near Vulcan has made a basin lister out of a one-way disc that has proved to be a very effective implement. This is made by removing all but the back disc from the one-way and then placing discs from which a notch has been cut in place of each third disc on the one-way. This is, the back disc would be unscalped, then 2 discs would be left out, then a disc with a scalloped notch, then 2 discs left out and another notched disc placed on the shaft and soon. This type of basin lister is being used by numerous farmers this fall. At the Experimental Station, Lethbridge and a number of the Sub-Stations supervised from the Lethbridge Station one-ways have been converted into basin listers in this way and fully as effective basin listing has been done as has been possible with the regular basin listers. It will be interesting to observe the results that are secured from this new addition to our dry farming practice.

HON. MANNING QUESTIONED

Straight questions seeking straight answers were asked of Hon. E. C. Manning, Provincial Secretary, during a recent broadcast of the United Association, Edmonton, which was carried through Calgary by arrangement with the People's League of Alberta.

The questions were (1) How could a bank write a cheque for $2,000,000, that would cost them nothing?

(2) If it is true that a bank can create money by the stroke of a pen why did Mr. Manning vote against the establishment of a provincial bank?

The broadcast was conducted by Colin McKenzie, Edmonton, who stated "Banks cannot create money in unlimited amounts."

The speaker ridiculed what he called the attempt of the Hon. Mr. Manning to defend his statement that banks could write a cheque that cost them nothing.

The United Canada Association program is now a regular feature sponsored by the League in southern Alberta and carried over radio station CFCN.

"HELLO CANADA... AGAIN"

"Hello Canada — and hockey fans in Newfoundland and the United States! ... Once more on Saturday, November 6th, Foster Hewitt's familiar greeting will sweep over a chain of stations from Coast to Coast. Fans in Canada the United States and even in more distant countries will rally round their radios to hear the opening Imperial Oil Hockey Broadcast of the game between Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Americans, at Maple Leaf Gardens.

That this program is the world's biggest and most popular weekly sports broadcast, is borne out by a letter received from an enthusiastic woman hockey fan, formerly of Nova Scotia, but who writes to say she is going to "listen in" from her far-away new home in Crisfield, Canal Zone, where, she claims, reception is crystal clear.

The Imperial Hockey Broadcasts will expand this coming Winter, practically "blanketing" every province in Canada with the broadcasts of games played either in Toronto or in Montreal.

Last Winter, broadcasting of Montreal games was not permitted during the regular season schedule, leaving province of Quebec listeners without hockey until the play-offs. This Winter, however, Imperial Oil Limited has secured a franchise for all Saturday night games in Montreal.

With the province of Quebec thus provided for, the hockey network will now cover the entire Dominion with games played either in Toronto or in Montreal, and Saturday night will very definitely become HOCKEY NIGHT IN CANADA.

Imperial Oil's Montreal staff of English announcers is now familiar to listeners throughout Canada, due to its handling of the Montreal play-off games last Winter. But, in addition to the English broadcasts of games at the Forum, there will be a companion broadcast, entirely
